BRCDGV-2020

The cross-border connections are increasing on a daily basis in this changing world scenario with integration of societies, economies and cultures. Widely nations are getting recognition through political and economic reforms, rapid technological changes, and population growth. Innovations and the dissemination of new technologies are becoming driven forces for an individual and societal progress. National barriers to the flow of goods, capital and people are breaking down and platforms, processes and policies are standardising. It simply means that global risks for doing business are changing rapidly. And institutions, organisations, companies, universities, stockholders and law makers need to anticipate tomorrow's risks today.

In past decades, traditional universities were known for the long traditional practices of research and higher education for the elite without accessibility to the general people. But today education is a basic need of society for an individual and societal growth. World's most developed countries are facing issues of demographic changes, and their traditional universities are struggling to maintain their branding by getting less and less applicants; other side- many developing nations are getting higher demands for quality of education and are not able to provide enrolments for tertiary education due to overpopulation. It has changed the entire profile of higher education from traditional institutions to knowledge based institutions, from research centres to innovative technological hubs, from elite to large segment of population, from traditional communication to technological communication, from traditional classrooms to virtual universities, from costs pressure to new forms of financing with accountability.

At Indo-European Education Foundation, we've been helping business since 2013. From academia to industries, business strategies to risk management, collapsing academic institutions to most prominent academic giants and understanding emerging risks to successfully lead their companies into the future.

IEEF's BRCDGV (Business Risk in Changing Dynamics of Global Village) is a multidisciplinary international platform for analysing the latest emerging risk factors and to provide critical information and practical advice that businesses are in need to get support in order to turn risk into opportunity.

On behalf of Indo-European Education Foundation as an Initiator of BRCDGV, and our partner universities, after grand success of last two editions BRCDGV-1 in Poland at the university of Applied Sciences in Nysa, and BRCDGV-2 at Ternopil Ivan Puluj National Technical University, Ternopil, Ukraine, I am looking forward to welcoming you to India at Patna University, Patna, Bihar, for the 3rd edition of BRCDGV-2020 Conference.

We hope that the conference will bring together a unique and international mix of experts to exchange and share their experience, knowledge on all aspects of Business from all around the world with successful contribution for growing India for doing business-creating a new roadmap for development of Patna, Bihar.

Dr Pradeep Kumar

It is indeed a moment of immense pleasure, privilege and honour for me to utter few words, on behalf of our Patna University, Patna, Bihar, India, and invite soliciting your gracious presence and participation in the IIIrd edition of International E-Conference BRCDGV-2020, which has now been rescheduled, owing to the constraints of 'Covid-19' pandemic, in Patna, Bihar (INDIA) on 24th November 2020. It would certainly be an opportunity for all of us furthering our avowed aim to work together for mutual interests with the esteemed delegates from different countries and regions in the socio-economic and cultural arena of academic vis-à-vis inclusive development and growth of the concerned.

It is also gratifying and encouraging to note that the agenda of the present international e-Conference covers a wide range of very interesting topics relating to business risks in different fields in the present era of global changing environment that somehow or rather affects the overall interests of global target populace and nations. Varied factors relating to climate change and its direct effect on the development initiatives of nations are indeed a global issue of concern for the risks that are inherently involved in doing businesses for the ultimate benefit of nations and humanity at large. The present International e-Conference on Business Risk in Changing Dynamics of Global Village (BRCDGV-2020) will significantly abet providing an optimum global platform for the luminaries, from the academic, political and socio-economic fields to interact & discuss such issues, in depth, and even succeed removing stumbling blocks for the furtherance of nations mutual growth and development in the true spirit of global village where concern for humanity reign paramount.

We understand that BRCDGV construe being an international conference platform that has been launched by Indo-European Education Foundation (IEEF) Warsaw, Poland in cooperation with university of Applied Sciences in Nysa, Poland; Savitribai Phule Pune University, India; Galati University, Romania, and many other partners from different part of the world in 2017. The avowed objective of the BRCDGV conference is to provide the most effective and efficient platform for business development and academic collaborations with solutions for sustainable growth through exchange of latest technical information, the dissemination of the high-quality research papers and results on the issues, presentation of the new developments in the arena of business risk with multicultural society. Evidently, it aimed shaping of future directions and priorities for better business environment amidst the global ecological challenges & issues relating to it.

From the times immemorial, India remained being the champion of global humanity professing her vivid doctrine of "vasudeva kutumbakam" that depicts world being a family of humanity for their inclusive wellbeing and growth. In this regard the divine teachings of the great Mahavira, Buddha, & Gurunanak Deva along with many other apostles of peace has made Patna, the destination for the present conference as desirable and favoured to enable the world community of nations to visit our state of Bihar making the spirit of 'global village' coming true.

We hope that this conference in a beautiful city of Patna, in the heart of Bihar, (India) will help our guests to get to know it better, promote mutual enrichment of cultures and will positively be of great use for the participants both in personal and professional terms.
